Something Habesha Celebration Events taught us:

Couples browse on phones at night. Design for a dark room and a thumb, not a desktop at noon.

Two more from the same build:

- Show packages with real inclusions. "Contact for pricing" filters out buyers, not tyre-kickers.
- Your enquiry form should ask the date first. Everything else is negotiable; the date is not.

All three are in the live product, not in a slide deck. See it:

Something X-Boss Photography Studio taught us:

Rate-limit your public booking endpoints on day one, not after the first bot finds them.

Two more from the same build:

- A printed QR code beside the till still outperforms most paid ads for a local business.
- Booking flows should let people edit before confirming. Every un-editable form is an abandoned form.

All three are in the live product, not in a slide deck. See it: <https://xbossphotography.vercel.app>
